LeRay Quick wanted me to get him certain copies of Time, but he did not make his request in time. All of the issues he wanted were exhausted, at least locally. However, he isn't easily discouraged and insists that I get 'em whether they are in existence or not. Nice reasonable fellow to get along with, don't you think? Or do you?

Group of Santa Anans send representative to Santa Anita to place pool fund on certain horse. They had it figured out how much each one was going to get when the representative came back. He did, but he left the money in Santa Anita.

Chris, Diehl says he informed an inquiring friend that it wasn't going to rain until this department said "huf." At last we have found the fellow Mark Twain was looking for. Some one who can do something about the weather. But why pick on me.

This is Abe Lincoln and Guy Gilbert day in Santa Ana, as well as elsewhere. What that fellow does not have about Lincoln he can get. No besides the banks and the courthouse and city hall and title companies, Guy is observing the martyred president's anniversary. But he kept his place of business open half of the day.

Three flour salesmen who are in the habit of holding a morning conference in front of the post-office, moved inside. The weather wasn't propitious for outdoor forums.

Valentine day next Monday. You can get sweetie one in time, and if you got a grudge against some one you still have time to get that kind in the mail. The letter carrier will make the delivery, but he won't be able to "square" your conscience. Better "make 'em all of the love and affection" type.

The calm after the storm brought out this inquiry: "Did the roof leak?"

George Martin, former Santa Ana, who has Charley Kelley for an uncle and glad of it, was in town Wednesday calling on old friends and sending word to others. His business location now is 1853 South Hope street. Long An, where he manufactures "the world's lightest" bits and spurs. George says even the cowboys are using them now. They have a lot of dude customers.

If it keeps on raining this new housing proposition will be all right.

The same thing happens at Eddie Lane's cafe that happens at your house. When you leave the grease on the fire too long it burns. However, we have an impartial fire department. Want to prove it?

Bob Jeffrey is going fishing up in the high Sierras sometime in March or April, and says he's going to send me a trout. Last time he gave me one it jumped right out of my hands, but I caught it again and without a hook. Some fisherman!

Dean Johnston, sec-mgr. for the Farmers Mutual Fire Insurance Co., finds me straying out North Main and concluding that I am somewhat off the beaten path. Offers rest but no refreshment, it just being after the lunch hour. But he does have a restful reception room where the weary may relax, and one of these days I am likely to avail myself of his offer to rebuild a depleted physique.

Milan Miller says five minutes of twelve on Friday, the 11th, that he wanted to go to Laguna to attend a service club, which met at 12:15 and said he would be there on time, but he couldn't get any one to go with him.

CRASH ADDS ONE MORE TO DEATH TOLL

Rainswept Highway Scene of Fatality

A shadowy form suddenly loomed in front of a young San Diego couple's car on the rainswept coast highway near Doheny Park early this morning. Brakes screeched, then there was a crash. Another death had been added to Orange county's staggering 1938 accident toll.

To Date, 1938 Slippery roads killed 15 and holiday traffic also accounted for 10 injuries last night, as participants in two other spectacular accidents barely escaped death.

Maximino Mercado, 30, San Clemente gardener, was instantly killed at 5:30 a. m. today when he was struck by a car in which H. T. McCaslin, his wife and small baby, were heading north from

GREATEST ERA AHEAD--CLAIM

RIVERSIDE, (AP)—Lieut. Gov. George J. Hatfield told the California Republican assembly here in a Lincoln day address the West is near the greatest era of development in its history.

"Trade and industry are sweeping westward," said Hatfield. "Within a short span of years, 30 or 40 million people will live in our 11 western states, instead of 10 million. The key to this development is low priced power."

The "meanest thief" turned up again yesterday.

He stole $5 from one woman's purse, $3 from another—while the women were at prayer service prior to funeral rites for their father.

Mrs. A. B. Larsen, 506 North Pacific street, widow of Abraham B. Larsen for whom services were being conducted, couldn't believe a thief was at work while the prayer service was in progress, so she reported the theft as a burglary.

Police found, however, that no doors or windows had been tampered with and that the $8 theft must have occurred before the family went to the funeral parlor. Mrs. Mable Larsen and Mrs. Lydia Swantz were victims of the theft.

ORANGE county — Bible stronghold and famed for valencias—marches on toward a land of "loot, lottery and lemons."

Close on the heels of that remark came his comment that reporters devise items here "not seriously written" in an effort to fill an abyss of newspaper space.

Europe's Unrest Increases as Nazi Rumors Denied

Europe's seething political cauldron boiled and bubbled with unrest today, as events of grave importance slowly gathered headway in Germany, Austria and Rumania.

In Berlin a swelling wave of resentment swept Nazidom over foreign rumors of army unrest. Indignation increased sharply over the unprecedented bombardment of reports from abroad of supposed army revolts, street fights in Berlin and executions of generals—all officially denied—since Hitler assumed supreme command of the German armed forces last week.

At the same time, in Bavaria, Hitler met secretly with Chancellor Kurt von Schuschnigg of Austria in a conference which it was believed led to far-reaching consequences. Von Schuschnigg agreed to the conference at the urgent suggestion of Premier Bruno Musil of Italy.

While in Bucharest, Rumania, with military rule and censorship to silence opposition, the new Rumanian government today issued a 14-point program assuring the nation of justice and peace, and promising a new era of prosperity by radical economic, social and constitutional reforms, including organized emigration of Jewish surplus population.

The Austrian cabinet sat in continuous session as Schuschnigg conferred with Hitler at the German Fuehrer's mountain retreat at Berchtesgaden. Franz von Papen, recalled as ambassador to Vienna in Hitler's drastic governmental shakeup a week ago, was also at Berchtesgaden, presumably

STORK DERBY AWARDS MADE

TORONTO, (AP)—The Ontario supreme court today accepted claims of four Toronto mothers to shares of the $500,000 stork derby prize bequeathed by the late Charles Vance Millar to the woman giving birth to the most children in the 10 years following his death.

The four mothers—Mrs. Isabel Mary MacLean, Mrs. Annie Katharine Smith, Mrs. Kathleen Ellen Nagle and Mrs. Lucy Alice Tinsley—each gave birth to nine children in the 10 year period. Their claims were unchallenged.

Unless two other mothers, proof of whose claims was in dispute, are admitted to the group, the four women will be awarded approximately $125,000 each by executors of the Millar estate.

New Belgium Envoy Leaves

NEW YORK, (AP)—Joseph E. Davies, newly appointed ambassador to Belgium, sailed on the liner Bremen early today to conclude his affairs as ambassador to Russia before going to Brussels. Mrs. Davies accompanied him.

A fellow passenger was Mrs. Hans H. Dieckhoff, wife of the German ambassador, who is going to Berlin to inspect plans for the new German embassy in Washington. Ambassador Dieckhoff saw her sail.

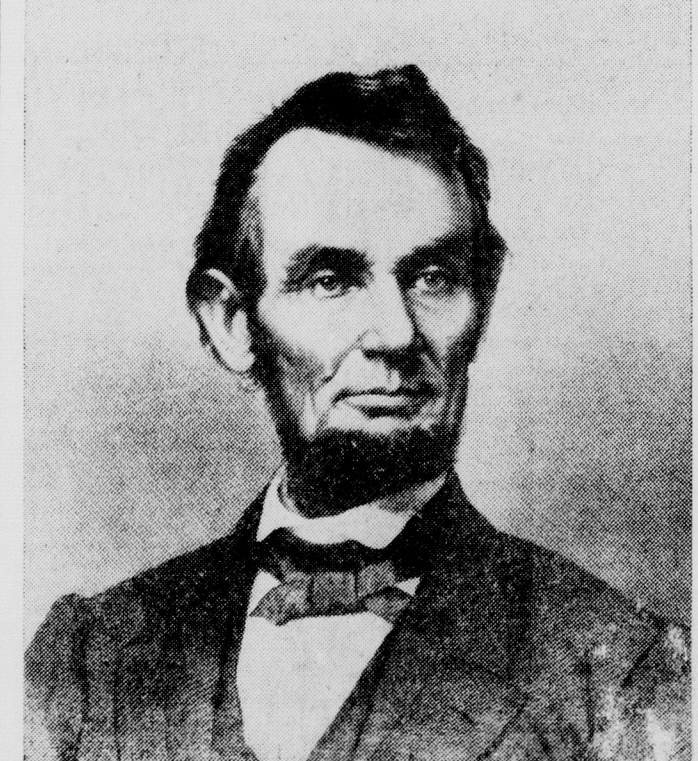

For more than century French wives have been the legal prisoners of their husbands under the Napoleonic principle that "nature made women our slaves."

Under the Code Napoleon, promulgated in 1803 and the law of the land until now, a married woman, like a child or an insane person, was denied civil rights. A wife could have no home but her husband's; she could not acquire or distribute property without the authorization of her husband or of the courts. Virtually all the wife could do was make her own will.

An American woman, or one of any other nationality marrying a Frenchman, heretofore came under the same conditions.

The next step in the feminist campaign for emancipation of women is expected to be concentrated on an effort to obtain the right to vote. Four times that of chamber of deputies has approved

Lincoln Acclaimed Labor's Friend

"Abraham Lincoln once made the statement that labor came before capital, and without labor, capital would not exist—therefore labor is superior to capital and deserves the principal consideration."

With this as his text, Atty. Leo Gallagher, famous labor lawyer, addressed approximately 300 persons at Willard Junior High school auditorium last night in a program eulogizing the great emancipator.

"Lincoln once said anyone has the right to charge the existing government," Gallagher said continuing that a transformation might easily occur here as a result of the serious unemployment situation.

"Through the suppression of our fundamental rights guaranteed in the United States constitution," Gallagher pointed out, "the 60 wealthiest families in this country intend to thrust fascism upon the majority of the people. Lincoln upheld these rights for the common man."

Gallagher asserted strike opposition is being used to destroy the American standard of living. He illustrated by pointing to the sheriff of San Luis Obispo county who, he said, ordered striking workers to return to farm lands at less than a standard wage or go to jail. Again he said 26 women in Los Angeles were recently arrested for peacefully picketing the SRA headquarters, and 5000 other women working on WPA sewing projects are being thrown into the streets.

"How can we stop this violation of our fundamental rights?" asked Gallagher.

"There's only one answer—trade unionists must unite, irrespective of their party loyalties, whether they are members of the CIO or A. F. of L., or belong to the Democratic, Republican or Socialist parties."

QUICK ACTION
SAN DIEGO, (AP)—City Judge Joe Shell termed it "stream-lined justice" when the entire trial of Charles Barr, 42, charged with a theft, was completed in 40 minutes with a jury verdict of acquittal.

TRAFFIC SUSPECT
James Walker, alias Jack Richards, 26, Los Angeles, was arrested in Orange county yesterday on a Ventura justice court warrant charging he drove a car without the owner's consent.

Preceding Gallagher's talk, Mrs. Rachel Willis told of a number of interesting incidents in the life of Lincoln. Vladimir Lenski, world renowned violinist, accompanied by one of his pupils, rendered three musical numbers.

Attorney Robert E. Crowley, Crowley explained the meeting was arranged by a group of local business men and others interested in commemorating Lincoln's birthday.

'Manslaughter' is Jury's Verdict as Insanity Trial Set

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—Paul Wright, former airport executive, was found guilty of manslaughter today in connection with the slaying of his wife, Evelyn, and his best friend, John Kimmel.

The case was given to the jury late yesterday. The trial, lasting more than three weeks, was marked by Wright's contention he shot Mrs. Wright and Kimmel in a "white flame," of jealousy when he found them in an abnormal embrace on a piano stool in the Wright residence in Glendale last Nov. 9.

NO DEATH PENALTY
Although the prosecution charged in its opening statement it would attempt to prove the slayings were premeditated, the jury was not asked specifically to vote the death penalty. The state, in concluding the case, stated it had shown murder "in some degree," and asked the jury for its determination.

Jerry Giesler, Wright's counsel, claimed his client was unconscious when he fired the fatal shots. He pointed out that under California law a person is not responsible for

STATE MILK PRICE RULE PROTESTED

Governor Asked for Law Revision

Attempts will be made to revise the state milk control act during the forthcoming special session of the legislature, it was learned here today, as plans were being made for a hearing here March 1, preparatory to setting minimum milk prices.

Assemblyman Samuel W. Yorty of Los Angeles placed a written request for such action before Governor Merriam today.

His letter also charged Director of Agriculture A. A. Brock with ignoring facts and figures presented a well-known creamery during recent Los Angeles hearings, which proved that "no increase in price was necessary to enable distributors to make a fair profit."

Brock, who will conduct the Orange county hearing, has been the target of similar attacks before. He recently was named defendant in a suit brought by 83 dairymen in the Los Angeles area challenging the validity of the state agricultural code.

Merriam previously had announced he would not include any controversial matters in a call for a special session except on the subject of soil.

Missing Boy Found Under House Exposed to Cold

Missing from his Anaheim home since last Sunday, and in danger of death if he were exposed to the elements, 15-year-old Francis Bruce was found hiding under a house in Long Beach yesterday. Herman Zabel of the sheriff's identification bureau reported this morning.

Young Bruce, who is suffering from a heart ailment and who might have died if he caught cold, was taken to a physician this morning for a complete examination by his father, LeRoy Bruce, Anaheim house painter.

A former schoolmate recognized the youth and informed his father that he was in Long Beach.

The Vincent boy escaped the officers and was last seen going towards Los Angeles.

Police Hunt Man Accused by Woman

FRESNO, (AP)—Officers today hunted for an unidentified man who 16-year-old Mrs. Mary Skidmore reported criminally attacked her after taking her from her husband through a hitch-hiking ruse.

The new law providing that "the married woman has the full exercise of her civil rights" means she may inherit, earn and spend her own money, sign and witness legal documents, plead before courts in her own name and generally share with her husband in support and management of the family.

The theory of common property, previously handled alone by the husband, was replaced by that of personal property for each.

1000 Japanese Troops Wiped Out In New Attack

HWA RIVER IS SCENE OF MASSACRE

Nippon Starts New Mongolian Drive

HANKOW. (AP)—More than 1000 Japanese troops were reported tonight to have been wiped out in a futile attempt to cross the Hwai river near Pengpu on the Lungshai front in Central China.

Chinese dispatches said many of the Japanese were drowned and others were picked off by Chinese sharpshooters.

Other Japanese units admittedly reached the north bank of the stream in face of the Chinese gunfire. Chinese reports, however, said most were annihilated in hand-to-hand fighting and all others were taken prisoner.

NEW JAPANESE DRIVE BELIEVED STARTING

PEIPING. (AP)—Heavy Japanese troop movements toward Inner Mongolia gave credence today to persistent reports that Japan is concentrating forces at Paotou, in Western Suiyuan province, for a drive to cut China's 3000 mile long highway artery to Soviet Russia.

Large bodies of Japanese troops, with plenty of field artillery, have been rolling through Peiping lately toward Kalgan, capital of Chahar province.

Chinese authorities at Hankow, temporary seat of General Chiang Kai-Shek's government, reported today that a Japanese thrust at their vital communication and supply line to Russia.

If the Japanese were preparing for such an offensive, it was believed they would first seek to dislodge General Ma Chuan-Shan's Chinese troops wintering at Wu-yuan, 100 miles west of Paotou.

Then they would strike southward through Ningxia province toward Lanchow, in Kansu province, in an effort to establish an advanced air base from which they could bomb the long highway leading from the heart of China into Sinkiang province and Russia.

Russian goods. Chinese sources say the Japanese also could strike back toward Sianfu which, if captured, would expose the northern flank of Szechuan province.

Observers here believed the Japanese troop concentration, if not intended for a campaign against the highway, could only be for a tentative expedition along the Outer Mongolian border north of Paotou. This alternative was considered unlikely, since Japan is known to be concerned mainly in this area with stopping the flow of supplies from Russia.

he isn't, well, congratulations anyway, but not so much of it. I could get the right number on the span of life of this well-known former manager of the telephone company, but let us assume that it is around, oh well, say—let's not say anything. Best wishes, Earl, especially on selecting the thirteenth for a birthday anniversary. That's what I did.

Friday forenoon some one sent in a report that a hurricane was on the way, and Friday afternoon the director of weather sent a part of it in just to prove the rumor.

Some fellow, cognate to me, brought in a sunflower. He may have been from Kansas, but that doesn't matter. There are "sunflowers" in my back yard, but they do not announce themselves until later in the season. The sample at The Journal office is really beautiful. I like it. Maybe you will, too.

Until the weather clarifies let's change it from "Bei Mir Bist Du Schon," to "My Dear Cellophane."

18 More Soviets Sentenced to Die

Six persons were sentenced for causing a trolley bus accident in Leningrad, 10 for disrupting collective farming in the Caucasus and two for mismanagement of a Siberian lumber camp.

TOO DARK TO SEE
It was dark. He suddenly jumped in front of the car, too close for me to stop," McCaslin, driver of the car, told Coroner Earl Abbey. An inquest at Dived funeral parlor in San Clemente is pending.

Five persons were injured—one of them critically—in another crash at Fairview and Main streets in Santa Ana shortly before 6 o'clock last night.

Mrs. Frank Simmons, 261 Walnut street, Costa Mesa, sustained compound fractures of both legs and the left ankle, a fractured wrist, severe bruises and several broken teeth when her husband's car and one driven by Horace Ray Conley, Jr., 19, Los Angeles, collided.

THREE INJURED
Simmons sustained bruises and shock, and three passengers in Conley's car—Bob Burch, Dorothy Mallett and Margaret McFadden, all of Los Angeles—were injured. Miss Mallett received a severe scalp laceration. All were taken to the county hospital by the Orange county ambulance service.

FRACURED SHOULDER
Walden Rothenberger, 22, 224 East Myrtle street, Santa Ana, received a fractured shoulder when his car and one driven by Orval Harman, 31, 511 East Second street, Santa Ana, crashed up at 101 highway and Manchester boulevard at 8:05 p. m. yesterday.

Rothenberger's two brothers, David, 20, and Paul, 25, also were slightly injured, as were Harman and a companion, Maxine Reeves, 20, 606 East Fifth street, Santa Ana. They received emergency treatment at the county hospital.

TEACHER FACES 'HAMMER' TRIAL

James E. Stevenson, lanky young Santa Ana high school shop teacher, will face trial in justice court March 14 on charges he struck a 19-year-old student over the head with a hammer.

A crowd of spectators, including a dozen of Stevenson's students, heard the young teacher plead not guilty to assault charges yesterday afternoon and waive a jury trial.

The trial, to be heard by Justice Morrison, will take more than a full day, it was estimated by Dept. Dist. Atty. Robert Gardner, prosecuting, and Clarence Sprague, defense attorney.

Sprague, who entered private practice some time ago, will oppose Gardner, his successor in the district attorney's office, in his first case as defense attorney in a criminal action in the courtroom where he has prosecuted dozens of cases for the state.

Stevenson, son of a prominent former Santa Ana clergyman, is accused of striking 19-year-old Floyd Kohler over the head with a hammer on Jan. 28, when the student assertedly came into Stevenson's shop after being ordered out as a troublemaker. The teacher hit the student struck at him as he attempted to eject young Kohler from the shop.

System to Cause Rain Suggested

BUDAPEST, Hungary. (American Wire)—A system to end droughts in this country by causing it to rain has just been offered to the government and is to be tested by the Meteorological society. The theory is based on observations that volcanic outbreaks, fact of Hands Is Unhygienic," followed by rain, and the inventors claim that rain can be produced by fires created on a water surface, such as a lake, river bed or canal. They claim they can produce from 40 to 50 artificial rainfalls a year in the country.

Genius

Marian Anderson, considered one of America's foremost negro singers, appears here Wednesday night.

"Genius," said an ancient sage, "need not be mad, for madness is a wasting thing."

Marian Anderson, negro contralto who sings here Wednesday night under auspices of the Behmer-Wilson concert series, is a living example of the wisdom of that aphorism, for the tenor of her life has been quiet, deliberate and free from hysteria.

Her rise to stardom was deliberate and unhurried—the perfect balance of intelligence and a great vocal instrument.

Marian Anderson was born in Philadelphia, the daughter of a school-teacher. As a child she sang in the local church. She was able to sing soprano, alto, tenor or bass.

Friends and advisors obtained funds for her education. She entered a contest and from among 300 competitors was chosen to sing at the Lewisohn stadium in New York, and was invited to be guest soloist with the Philadelphia Philharmonic society.

Marian went abroad and studied. Then she was booked on a tour of the continent. She made her first major triumph in Paris. She impressed New York in three recitals.

Her appearance in Santa Ana comes near the climax of a sensational cross-country tour. Sponsors reported today large blocks of tickets have been sold by mail to eager music-lovers from Long Beach, Pasadena, Riverside, and other out-of-the-county points.

3 Men Missing In Boat Mishap

SAN DIEGO. (AP)—Three men were believed dead today in the capsizing of a 45-foot fishing boat, Nuchum, five miles off Point Loma.

The men missing, after Capt. James Parker of the craft was rescued yesterday, were listed by customs brokers as Herbert McMahon of Long Beach or San Diego, Bernhard Orante and Rodolfo Marques, both of Ensenada, Mex.

Bad News Brings Death to Man

EUREKA. (AP)—Clutching a telegram which told of the death of a sister, the body of Albert Moser, 70, was found on a dark muddy street near the outskirts of Eureka tonight.

Coroner W. L. Wallace said Moser died of a heart attack. The victim was a carpenter.

Ancient English Wall in Danger

HASTINGS, England. (American Wire)—Archaeologists were keeping an anxious eye on slum clearance here today, fearful for the preservation of the Old Town Wall, built in the 14th century. Remains of the wall were used in the walls of houses, so that their destruction is likely to demolish the wall. The wall was constructed following an attack by the French in 1377, when the town was burned.

WRIGHT GUILTY, MANSLAUGHTER

his act while in an unconscious state.

The manslaughter charge calls for from one to 10 years in the penitentiary.

2ND TRIAL ORDERED
The jury's verdict convicted the slayer on two counts: one for killing his wife, and the other for the death of Kimmel.

Superior Judge Ingall Bull, calling attention to Wright's second plea of "not guilty by reason of insanity," immediately ordered a trial on that point, before the same jury.

The jury of four women and eight men brought in the verdict after approximately three hours deliberation.

It was given the case at 8 p. m. last night and then was put to bed at 10. Deliberations started again at 9 a. m. today and scarcely more than an hour later Judge Bull announced he believed a verdict had been reached.

MRS. KIMMEL WEEPS
Mrs. Kimmel wept quietly as the verdict was read.

After conferring with the prosecution and defense, Judge Bull set the date for the insanity hearing at 10 a. m. Monday. With the use of the testimony in the trial just closed, the attorneys agreed the insanity trial would take about two or three days.

Wright bore up well under the verdict. His head slumped to his chest for a moment and then his father, Dr. J. J. Wright, came over to console him. The slayer placed his arm across his father's shoulder to steady himself as he stood up, but his eyes were dry.

EUROPE UNREST GROWS TENSE

participating in the conferences.

Austria, troublesome crossroads of Europe, has long been a sore point in otherwise cordial relations between Germany and Italy. It was believed today's conference grew directly from the recently formed Rome-Berlin axis, and was the forerunner of moves to bring Austria more closely into line with the two-power agreement.

There was mounting belief in Berlin that Hitler might decide upon a dramatic step to restore confidence at home and respect abroad for Germany's military might.

HITLER THREAT
Had rumors of armed revolt in the military been isolated flurries in one or two foreign newspapers, the whole affair might have been laughed off, but Europe has been so thoroughly blanketed and foreign radio broadcasts have so thoroughly saturated the German public that some feel Hitler may decide a dramatic counter-demonstration is necessary.

Propaganda Minister Paul Goebbels' newspaper Der Angriff has pointedly warned those who believed Hitler had lost his voice that, when the Reichstag meets on Feb. 20, they would:

"Hear the voice of Adolph Hitler only too clearly."

JAPS SPURN NAVY SECRET DEMANDS

TOKYO. (AP)—Japan refused formally tonight to divulge secrets of her naval construction in reply to demands for information by the United States, France and Great Britain.

Japan declared herself willing, however, to discuss naval limitations on a quantitative basis—restricting the size of fleets rather than individual ships.

The formal note contended Japan failed "to see any logical reason" for assuming Japanese planning to build warships beyond the limitations of the 1936 London naval treaty.

The government insisted, moreover, that Japan has "no intention whatever of possessing an armament which would menace other countries."

The declaration was contained in a note handed to United States Ambassador Joseph C. Grew by Kensuiki Horinouchi, Japanese vice-minister of foreign affairs.

It answers the three-power demands to know by Feb. 20 whether Japan's naval building program contemplated battleships in excess of 35,000 tons.

to recede and let them return to their homes.

The same river flooded many blocks on the lower end of Watsonville, in the heart of a rich agricultural area which faced heavy damage if flood conditions continued.

AVAILANCE OF SNOW
An avalanche of snow, which crushed six cabins and a community store at June Lake in the Sierras, increased the death toll by two yesterday. Charles Clark, 46, a woodcutter, and his helper, Edward Walters, 63, perished in one of the cabins.

A bridge spanning the Salinas river at Soledad, 20 miles south of Salinas on the coast highway, was washed out last night, and fear was expressed at least one automobile hurtled into the river before warning signs could be put up.

Coast highway travel was cut off, but southbound motorists could proceed by way of Metz and King City.

3 FISHERMEN LOST
Three fishermen were lost yesterday when a 45-foot boat overturned in stormy waters off San Diego; one man was killed by an automobile on a rain-swept highway near San Francisco; another was believed drowned when flood waters collapsed his cabin on Walnut creek near Martinez.

Eight other deaths were attributed to storm conditions during the 17 days of Northern California rainfall, which broke all previous records for precipitation.

M'KENZIE SENT TO SAN BERDIO

H. E. McKenzie, chief liquor control officer of the Orange county division of the Board of Equalization, has been transferred to the San Bernardino office of the organization.

Ted Wallace of Riverside will succeed McKenzie here. McKenzie will occupy a position similar to the one he held locally. He came to Santa Ana from Riverside and it is understood his work will bring him in contact with numerous firms in Riverside county as well as San Bernardino.

SUICIDE AFTER DEATH THREAT

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—William Richard Tomkins of Gallatin, Tenn., shot and fatally wounded himself, police said today, after ending a telephone call to Miss Dora Nussell in Los Angeles with the words, "I'm going to kill myself."

Tomkins died five hours later at city hospital and police Detectives George Daley and Charles Ungles said he refused to discuss the shooting, or his telephone call, but asked them to leave him alone and let him die.

Police rushed to Tomkins' room in a local hotel when a telephone operator there reported she heard the death threat. They found Tomkins lying on the bed in his room, a pistol nearby. He was shot through the abdomen.

MERRIAM TO BE CHECK DONOR

SACRAMENTO. (AP)—Governor Frank F. Merriam will personally hand out one of the first of California's unemployment compensation checks when delivery starts Monday to some 40,000 of them.

The governor will hand checks at the state building in Los Angeles to Albert C. Kruse, machine operator, and Anna C. Dougherty, retail establishment floor manager.

Distribution of the 40,000 checks, the unemployment reserve commission said, represents action on the first group of some 150,000 claims for compensation. Other claims and repeat checks for initial beneficiaries will be taken care of in succeeding weeks.

POLAR RESCUE SHIP DISABLED

MOSCOW. (AP)—The ice breaker Murman, speediest of three vessels seeking to rescue four Russian scientists stranded on a drifting ice floe off Greenland, today reported heavy seas had temporarily disabled her automatic steering controls.

Waves rolling over the ship tore off a hatch and covered the decks with ice before the storm subsided, the Murman messaged. Her position was not given, but reports last night placed her about 300 miles from the ice floe.

Ivan Papanin, commander of the drifting Polar Camp, reported cut off more than 10 years in prison for the death of her husband, Benjamin Marshall, at their Fallon ranch home last Nov. 1.

A jury convicted Mrs. Marshall of second degree murder, but Superior Judge Anthony Cannetti, in passing sentence yesterday, reduced the charge to manslaughter, stating he was convinced there was no malicious intent or premeditation in connection with Marshall's death. He said Mrs. Marshall "undoubtedly was intoxicated" at the time.

The state contended Mrs. Marshall beat her husband to death. She declared he died from injuries suffered in a fall from their barn roof.

CHILD RELIEF REQUESTS RESPIRATOR

No Such Equipment Available for New

A drive to obtain an "iron lung" for Orange county was opened today by the Crippled Children's Relief association.

The association wrote the board of supervisors, urging that body to take steps as soon as possible to provide for the purchase of a respirator for use in Orange county hospital.

There is no such equipment available in the county today, the association pointed out, with the exception of the baby size respirator purchased last year by St. Joseph's hospital. Cost of the equipment is estimated at about $3,000.

WISHING WELL BOOSTED

The association, in its monthly meeting yesterday, also announced that plans for the installation of a "wishing well," from which will be donated to crippled children's rehabilitation work, will be outlined at its next meeting March 11 in Santa Ana. President E. Kate Rea said.

Plans were outlined for a drive to spread state work in vocational rehabilitation to include all high school districts of the county, under the direction of the state school department. The work is being carried on at present in Santa Ana, Huntington Beach, Anaheim and Fullerton high school districts.

INCREASE IN STAFF

It is hoped under the plan to increase the staff of permanent workers in the county to two, Miss Rea said. One man is stationed here permanently at the present time, dividing his activities between the four districts, which share in costs of the program with the state.

The association announced that two new cases, one of infantile paralysis and one of another type, had been received in Orange county, and would be cared for by the relief group.

WEST NEARING BOOM--CLAIM

ATLANTA, (AP)—Georgia's chain gangs are doing a thing of the past today under legislative action that will convert them into "public works camps" for "honor" prisoners, with a policy of "no more shackles, whipping or sweat boxes."

Evolution of the chain gang was one of the steps in a prison reform program undertaken by the current special session of the general assembly at the behest of Governor E. D. Rivers.

The name chain gang was changed to public works camp in a bill sent to the governor for signature. Actual revision of the old chain gang setup is taking place under other parts of the right measures comprising the reform plan.

TRIO RESCUED IN LANDSLIDE

HAILEY, Ohio, (AP)—Three men trapped in a huge snowslide at the Triumph mine near here, were rescued by crews who worked through much of the night, but today one was in a critical condition.

Hillard Hicks, 20, son of the state highway bureau's chief mechanic at Shoshone, was the last removed from the slide, early today. Physicians had said his condition was serious.

Fifty miners, working frantically with pick and shovel, rescued Warren Rockwell, 40, and Emmett Hutchins, 41, both of Hailey, shortly after the slide crashed down upon the mine tramway headhouse late last night.

RENO SWINDLE CASE DEBATED

NEW YORK, (AP)—A federal court jury continued today its deliberations on the innocence or guilt of five men charged with conspiracy and mail fraud in the operation of $2,500,000 Reno, Nev., swindling racket.

Justice Willis Van Devanter, trying his first major case since retiring from the United States supreme court, ordered the jury locked up at 10 p. m. yesterday.

Both previous trials resulted in jury disagreements for the pair.

Spanish Rebels Resume Offensive

HENDAYE, France, at the Spanish Front, (AP)—The insurgents resumed their offensive in the mining region of eastern Badajoz province today, fighting to cut the Peralada-Zalamea highway.

Salamanca dispatches said General Francisco Franco's troops captured six positions, including four hills in the Las Arenas sector.

The government admitted the insurgents were attacking in this region, but asserted Franco's troops were driven back to their original positions.

I Just Found Out

Editor

Ed Velarde is the new editor of Santa Ana Junior college weekly newspaper, El Don. He succeeds Vic Rowland, first semester editor. Ed took charge yesterday.

Changes in the department heads of the Santa Ana Junior college weekly, El Don, brings Ed Velarde to the editor's chair, it was announced today.

John H. McCoy, journalism director, announced the appointments.

Velarde succeeds Vic Rowland. He served as copy editor last semester and as a reporter while a freshman. He will also continue to be student head of the News Service, jaycee publicity bureau.

Other changes in the staff include the appointment of Knocche as society editor, and Larry Trickey as sports editor. The new editorial heads succeeded Eleanor Brady, who edited society, and Jack Gardner, sports editor during the first term.

Bob Warren will continue to be in charge of circulation work during the new term. David Welsh and Ruth Liggett will solicit advertising.

Under the editorship of past editors, El Don has achieved an enviable record among junior college newspapers in the United States. It has won several All-American honors. Last year, editorial written by Bob Swanson, received All-American recognition as the best paper as a whole.

The paper is a five-column tabloid publication and is distributed to Associated Students on the campus.

RELIEF MONIES BRING QUERY

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The house appropriations committee asked Secretary Morgenthau and Daniel W. Bell, acting budget director, to explain today the effect of a $250,000,000 emergency relief appropriation would have on the general government fiscal situation.

Some members said they wanted information particularly on what the prospective deficit would be, but also desired to question the treasury secretary and Bell on the general state of the government's finances.

President Roosevelt asked Thursday that an additional $250,000,000 be appropriated for relief in the fiscal year ending next July 1.

But later he discovered it didn't matter whether the public liked what he did or not. Main idea, he figured, was that he liked painting because he had something he wanted to express. If people bought the picture, fine. Helped buy bread. But just having them stare at his paintings didn't do any good, didn't even give him a personal thrill.

"The woods are full of good artists, a lot of 'em better'n me." That's his promise. He sits in his house-car, sketches occasionally, hopes he'll get well enough to finish a few street and beach scenes.

That also may explain why he's done more sketches in his time than almost any other artist in this part of the country, yet only comparatively few of them have been turned into finished paintings.

Greatest talent a painter can have, according to Coburn's philosophy, is a sincere motive and desire to express. "I'm not a natural-born artist. Don't believe in such things," he commented. Talent, he claims, is acquired by sincere study of the things which appeal to an artist's particular temperament.

Expression is a fine thing, he points out, but you have to know the facts in order to give expression to them. That's what prompted him to study and sketch the human figure 20 years before he tried to do much real painting.

Whether or not the picture's any good, a sincere motive is necessary, Coburn believes, if art is to be the emotional expression it's supposed to be. Even at his present age, he paints from emotion, points out a picture of a rainy street scene as an example.

It was while rain was pouring down and he felt thankful for the warmth of his house-car the other night that he sketched out the street scene, a bleak memory of another rainy night back in Chicago.

Merriam Suggests S. B. Anthony Day

SACRAMENTO, (AP)—Schools, churches and civic and fraternal organizations were urged today by Gov. Frank F. Merriam in a proclamation making Feb. 15 "Susan B. Anthony day" to honor the birthday of the noted leader in the woman suffrage movement.

BRILLIANT PLANS MADE FOR BALL

Bugles and drums, epaulets, marching men, massed colors, bunting and flags will combine to make the Tenth annual military ball one of the most brilliant social affairs of the year, Chairman Harry Pickard predicted today.

The dance will be held Feb. 21 in Valencia ballroom. As in past years, Mrs. Fannie E. "Mother" Reeves will preside over the ballroom, and has officiated in decorating the huge room. Decorations, she said, will be in red, white and blue bunting. Massed colors of all veteran and patriotic organizations will be hung at one end of the hall.

Uniformed groups will include the Santa Ana and Anaheim drum corps, National Guardsmen as guard of honor, reserve officers, and decorated men of the World war.

Funds from the dance, originated in 1928 by the late Jack Fisher, county war hero, will be used for the rehabilitation and welfare of disabled veterans and families.

SONS OF VETS MAP FUTURE

Plans for a busy month were discussed at the regular meeting of Santa Ana camp No. 12, Sons of Union Veterans in Modern Woodmen of America hall here last night.

Besides a Lincoln's birthday dinner at Pasadena tonight, held under auspices of the Lincoln club of Southern California, the annual midwinter meeting of the Southern California department at Huntington park tomorrow, an inauguration meeting of Stephen Jackson camp at Santa Monica Tuesday, and a special Washington's birthday potluck supper of the local camp Feb. 25.

C. F. Miller gave a brief talk on Lincoln last night, and the meeting was conducted by Commander Perry Crook. W. I. Davis and C. E. Brayton were named on a committee to arrange for the next potluck.

Department Commander John Glass of San Jose will be installing officer at Tuesday's meeting in Santa Monica, it was announced.

Adult Education

Miss Mary Louise Bowler and her group in community singing have moved into the Willard auditorium. Why? Because room 206 is not big enough. Now there is room for many more. They meet each Monday at 7 p. m.

On Thursday evening, Feb. 17, Mrs. Louise P. Sooty will give her second lecture on costume design in the Willard auditorium at 7:30. Dresses will be modeled by class members.

Mrs. Edith Cloyes will review America's Sixty Families by Lundberg at the public affairs class, Thursday morning, Feb. 17, at the Y. W. C. A., 105 East Fifth street. The class meets from 9 to 11 a. m.

Who's afraid of the rain? The worst weather of the year found shop classes overflowing, 23 in an English class, and the bookkeeping class boiling over across the hall for additional space.

Remember the Monday night lectures at the Spurgeon auditorium.

People have asked what was going on in room 15 at the Lathrop school Wednesday evenings. It's not a riot, it's just a training class for vocational teachers, conducted by Dr. David F. Jackey and John Clifford from U. C. L. A.

Last Friday night saw the beginning of an aviation ground-school course. This class is taught by R. H. Drake formerly of Santa Ana, and satisfies the new department of air commerce regulations. The course is open to licensed and student pilots.

Brindle "Boots" Wanders While Child Grieves

If you see Boots, send her home, please. Boots is a good dog; she just doesn't understand. So when she went for a walk the other day she walked too far. Now she's lost. But she didn't mean to cause so much unhappiness.

And every day she is causing more unhappiness, because Boots was a child's pet, and the child is grieving for her.

Boots is a dark brindle Boston bull, with white around her neck and chest. She wears a harness. Her owner, Mrs. A. Tye, 417 South Garvey street, will pay a reward for her return. You can phone her at 5736.

Simplicity Marks Great Man

BY DALE CARNEGIE

Charles G. Dawes, one-time Ambassador to the Court of St. James, in London, said that he never met a really great man who was not simple. I would like to add that I never met a really great man who thought himself great. A great man loses sight of himself and sees only the work he has to do.

Dale Carnegie

Today there is being celebrated in twenty-nine states of the Union he helped to save, the birthday of a man who was as great as he was simple; as simple as he was great. It was just 77 years ago today before yesterday that Abraham Lincoln had his trunk brought down from his room in the Cheney House in Springfield, Illinois, and labeled "Executive Mansion, Washington, D. C."

But did Lincoln consider himself great because his address had suddenly become the most important one in the land? Well, Lincoln roped his own trucks that morning, and a man puffed up with pride in himself does not rope his own trucks while hotel porters are within call. Lincoln never thought of himself as being any better than a hotel porter.

As a matter of fact, he said that he always felt a bit embarrassed when in the presence of a well-dressed hotel clerk.

The people of Springfield did not consider Lincoln a great man. Too many times had they seen this gaunt, awkward figure, a shawl around his neck, a market basket on his arm, carrying home from the grocer and the butcher the family supplies. But they knew that they liked him, and so, on this, the day he was leaving Springfield for the White House, they came down to the railroad station to wish him God-speed. It was a dismal day; the rain was falling, the skies were dark. Lincoln had told the reporters that he did not intend to make a speech. But he had to say something to his old friends. His greatness made his speech simple, his simplicity made his speech great.

TO OLD FRIENDS

To these old friends, he said: "Today I leave you, not knowing when, or, if ever, I shall return. I go to assume a task more difficult than that which I have developed upon General Washington. Unless the great God who assisted him shall be with me and aid me, I must fail; but if the same omniscient mind and almighty arm that directed and protected Washington shall be with me, I shall not fail—I shall win."

Lincoln became a great man only because Lincoln, in his simplicity, lost sight of himself and saw only the work God had given him to do.

If you are ever devastated by sorrow, by disaster or calamity, get busy doing something. Keep your mind and your hands occupied. To do this will help you as nothing else will. I know. I have tried it.

An old Italian proverb: "Serve yourself and you will be served like a king."

REALTY MEN OPPOSED TO LISTING LAW

A resolution favoring abolition of a law making written listings necessary to give realtors legal status in any transaction for which they are agents was approved by the Santa Ana realty board after a heated discussion at Rossmore cafe yesterday noon.

On motion of Fast, President Earl B. Hawks, the group agreed to approve the resolution on grounds that the state law as it now stands merely prohibits them from suing to collect commissions in cases where the listing was just an oral agreement.

The board also approved a California Real Estate association resolution setting up a tax and legislative policy for the year. The resolution included a pledge by the local board to help to lobby fund to set up a legislative bureau, Sacramento.

An outline of the Capital company's plans for rounding out its development of San Clemente was given by George Wurzbarger, official of the company's subdivision bureau.

Immediate plans, he told the realtors, call for enlargement of the casino, construction of from 20 to 30 new homes, and rezoning of the beach.

San Clemente no longer is the Spanish village, Wurzbarger declared. "That was our idea at first, but the trend in architecture now has changed to low, rambling houses, and we're keeping up with the trend," he explained.

President Ray Goodell conducted yesterday's meeting.

Nagging Wife Helped Lincoln To Rise—Claim

Husbands with nagging wives are lucky. Abraham Lincoln was married to just such a woman, says Mrs. Rachel Willis.

Mrs. Willis, in addressing a gathering last night in the Willard Junior High school auditorium at a special Lincoln commemorative program, cited the stormy married life of Lincoln as a possible road to the great emancipator's success.

"I sometimes wonder if Mrs. Lincoln's nagging wasn't directly responsible for goading this awkward man on to the presidency of the United States," Mrs. Willis related. "Perhaps he would never have become president had it not been for her."

MODEST MAIDENS

"Well, Mike, how does it feel to be champ?"

TOWNSEND NEWS, VIEWS

By WALTER R. ROBB

The hearts of his countrymen beat with new warmth today as their memories linger with the virtues of the big and wholehearted Abraham Lincoln. Born in 1809 of obscure parents but destined in 1860 to be elected President of the United States and later in 1864 to be re-elected to the same high office, then on April 14, 1865 to die a martyr to the cause of freedom by assassination, is a brief biography of the great man whose birthday we celebrate today.

Abraham Lincoln wrote into the heart of the American government something of his own bigness of heart and purpose. We know that today better than we did while he was living. The passing of years since his martyrdom have afforded opportunity for an understanding of his greatness of soul which only time and distance could make plain.

The mark of greatness which rests upon Lincoln is not the fact that he was twice elected to the presidency of the United States, nor that he died as a martyr, although both of these things give great distinction. It was the love which he had for his fellowmen which has brought about the badge of honor which all men pin upon his memory today. Without that love he would not have possessed his spirit of fairness nor the crusading zeal with which he prosecuted the establishment of a justice which he deemed should be the heritage of every man, regardless of color or race. And so today we call him "The Great Emancipator."

Lincoln never hesitated to denounce evil when he saw it. He hated selfishness and greed as only the great can. He believed in the American form of government and labored to make it function in the promotion of justice and freedom.

There is another man in America today whose spirit breathes of fraternity, who loves humanity with a great love, and who with a frail body labors sacrificially to promote justice and advance the cause of freedom—I speak of Dr. Francis E. Townsend.

Must it be true again—that a great man must "belong to the ages" before his true worth can be properly estimated? If we measure this man by the things which he espies for the people to possess, and if we consider that for himself the things which he espies for could not long give him personal benefit—does it not mark him out as different? Lincoln had enemies and bitter ones at that, enemies who hated him because the purity of his purposes thwarted them in achieving their selfish ends. The same is true of

SCANDAL BRIDE

CHAPTER 32

Although Jim had never seen Merrie's handwriting he knew the letter was from her. With fingers that shook he tore it open.

He read the cool, impersonal little note twice. He sat down and looked at it without reading. She was going away.

She thanked him for his many kindnesses. At last he sighed. It was more like a groan.

It was what he had wanted her to do. But where had she gone? And had she gone alone? Had his brutal frankness had anything to do with her going? Suddenly he wished he had been kinder.

She was such a little thing, such a vivid little flame. It took a special kind of flame to burn so brightly. He was unable to imagine Merrie without her flame.

He crumpled the letter and threw it on the table. He buried his face in his hands and groaned again. Merrie was wild, headstrong, willful. She had no balance.

Without doubt she was now plunging into some new folly. All these things were true, but repeating them helped his headache not at all. The thought that she had gone out of his life was like a staggering blow.

He walked to the window. Looking into the rain-drenched street, he had the queerest sensation. It was Merrie's voice which moaned between the buildings, her tears rained down the window pane.

Going back to his chair, he opened a book. It was a new mystery story, and he tried to lose himself in the array of characters, each one of whom might have murdered a young adventurer.

It was hard going. Merrie's face stood between him and the printed page, he heard her laugh, caught the scent of her individual perfume.

Once he closed his eyes. He had heard her say, "Kiss me, Jim." For an instant he allowed himself the rapture of remembering. Merrie in his arms. The nearness and dearness of her. He caught his breath. Doggedly he went on with his reading.

At 10 o'clock Jim threw the book aside. He could not have told who was married, and not a snap of his fingers did he care why or by whom.

UNEASY

He opened the big door and pulled out the vertical bed; it hit the floor with a thud as if glad to be on four legs again. Absently Jim untied his belt, thoughtfully he unbuttoned his shirt.

Several times he stood still, his head bent in a listening attitude. Merrie seemed to fill the room. And she was a troubled little ghost. Jim was uneasy.

Did he hear her crying? Roundly he cursed himself for a fool. He couldn't imagine that defiant little head bowed in tears. Merrie was all right.

She had chosen her path. If he were lonely, obsessed with the thought of her, that was his problem.

Swiftly he crossed to the table and smoothed the rumpled note. Smoothing it, his fingers came in contact with a roughness. Closely he examined the roughness.

The paper had been pricked with a pin. It was full of little holes. Without breathing, he held it against the lighted lamp shade.

Sagging words formed under his scrutiny. Lips parted, brows frowning, he studied them out.

"Help me," and below, "Sunset Trail." And another word, hurriedly pricked, almost indistinguishable, "Curt."

Jim swallowed hard. He moistened his dry lips. He looked wildly about. Merrie was in trouble. He had been right.

Somewhere she waited for him to come, somewhere she wept, cried out.

Sunset Trail—what did it mean? His legal mind rose above panic, and he formulated plans. First he called Curt Rawson's apartment. There was no answer. He called travel bureaus with the same result.

FINDS CURT

He called porters in various hotels. Had they ever heard of Sunset Trail?

The porters were vague and disinterested. One pleasant chap thought there was such a trail in the Catskills, about 200 miles north, roughly speaking. He advised Jim against attempting the trip. The storm, sir.

Before Jim left the telephone he called the Starlit Roof. Was Curt Rawson dining there? Yes, he had checked his coat and hat not 10 minutes earlier.

Jim frowned over this news. It didn't tie up with the theory he had worked out. Hurriedly he donned evening clothes and drove to the Starlit Roof.

If Curt were there, Merrie was not in immediate danger. Jim found Curt at the bar. He was surrounded by a group of men, and the subject under discussion was Merrie Drake's disappearance. Stanley, his face a snarl of rage, was one of the group.

RUINED ME

"Look at this place," he raged, as Jim quietly joined them. "Standing room only, and I've got to tell 'em that Merrie Drake has taken French leave. She's ruined me, the little."

It was not a complimentary name he gave her. "Certainly is a mystery," Curt put in easily. "Suppose it could be an elopement?"

"I don't care what's happened to her," stormed the irate man. "I hope for the worst. The fact remains that she deliberately broke her contract—stood me up!"

get another chance—"What did she say in her letter?" Curt asked, and Jim listened carefully.

"Nothing—absolutely nothing," Stanley blustered. "Simply that she had gone away. If I could get my hands on that chit—"

Jim ordered a drink. "Hello, Rawson," he said. Curt whirled about as at a pistol shot. He forced a cold smile to his twitching lips.

"Hello, Blanchard." "What do you know about Merrie Drake?" Jim asked.

"No more than anyone else. She seems to have vanished just like that." He spread his hands in an elaborate gesture, too elaborate, Jim thought.

'RADIO CITY' FILM SHOWING

Filled to the brim with smart entertainment "Radio City Revels," with the comedy appeal of comedy, music, romance and specialty numbers, opens an engagement today at the Broadway theater, along with a second attraction, "The Jury's Secret."

While Bob Burns, Jack Oakie and Kenny Baker, famous radio and movie stars, deliver their grand performance at fine par, it is Ann Miller who comes along in stride toward the head of the pack with her charm of personality and exceptional dancing skill in "Radio City Revels." And while Miss Miller chatters potently with her flashing feet, she is no less effective in warm romantic appeal opposite Kenny Baker—poised, serene but with flashing vitality which rivets audiences every moment she's seen.

Milton Berle and Helen Broderick, in rich comedy roles, carry their full share in keeping up the high hilarity, with Victor Moore capably supplementing with characteristic quiet humor. All together, the comedians make the film a memorable romp, studded with nifty gags, skillfully maneuvered to bring out the laughs.

The basic idea of the screen musical comedy is decidedly original, and the development threads through the song, dance and specialty numbers with exciting and interesting movement. Drawing Bob Burns is an Arkansas hill-billy who comes to New York to take his final lessons in musical composition from the poney teacher, Jack Oakie, and his pianist, Milton Berle. Burns mutters popular and profitable ballads in his sleep. Oakie and Berle steal the songs.

Poignant emotion which tears at the heart strings is revealed in "The Jury's Secret," featuring Kent Taylor, Fay Wray, Larry Blake and Naeve Grey. Although the picture features the devastation wrought by a great flood, two intriguing romances are skillfully woven into the production and this new film is in reality an indictment of methods employed in murder trials where the evidence is of purely circumstantial nature.

Selected short subjects include a cartoon, "Lamplighter," and World News events.

In Radio City Revels'

Four of the top-notch stars of the smart new musical comedy, "Radio City Revels," which opens today at the Broadway theater, are shown. They are Jack Oakie, Milton Berle, Jane Froman and Bob Burns. The second attraction on the opening Broadway program is "The Jury's Secret," dramatic courtroom thriller with Kent Taylor and Fay Wray.

Star in West Coast Film

Spencer Tracy and John Crawford, above, are co-starred for the first time in the romantic drama of New York, "Mannequin," which now is showing at the West Coast theater along with a second feature, "Arsene Lupin Returns," crook drama de luxe featuring Melvyn Douglas, Virginia Bruce, Warren William, John Halliday and Nat Pendleton.

Mary Hampton's Column

Dear Worried Shorty: So your problem is exactly the opposite of Lanky Jane! And I realize none the less that your feet and ten inches, and ninety-eight pounds isn't so much for a grown-up. And yet I have known many women, not very much taller than you, who definitely gave the appearance of being tall. And it was all on account of that one, all-important thing I mention so emphatically—proportions.

First I want to tell you why a jigger coat—or any other costume of that sort, is bad for a short woman. The story depends upon the caprices of the human eye. For the eye follows "lines" like a dog follows its master, and with as much loyalty. Now when the eye finds that mid-way hemline of a jigger coat, it begins to run back and forth horizontally. And in running horizontally it communicates to the mind the idea of width. But width and shortness are synonymous—just as height and slenderness! All this is why belts of contrasting color—yokes—horizontal tucks, stripes and such are bad for tiny people (or stout people).

To look your tallest you must make your figure look as slender as possible. And to do this have nothing cutting across horizontally. Wear snug clothes and slender ones—one-piece dresses instead of two usually—all one color or frock instead of contrasts—full-length and fitted coats instead of flared or short ones. Do you catch what I mean?

And then if you add high heels

to all this and just the right confiture and hat—you simply grow! Now the right confiture is this new style with curls atop your head, providing that it is at all becoming. Anyway, brush your hair high and dress it up, revealing a clean neck. Don't have hair hanging around your neck! And wear small hats and high ones. And this too—have some very perky, modish accent atop the hat—like a feather in color or a big choux of ribbon or a flower. That catches the eye and holds it at its utmost height for you—and gives an impression of added inches.

MARY HAMPTON.

Dear H. H.—Your coat order is none too easy to fill—and yet we can do it, I believe. You see, first this coat must be an all-year-around affair, you say. And then you want something distinctive and dressy. So that let's out the casual sport coat which fits into California lives so perfectly. And then you have hips and thighs which must be slenderness. All right—the answer is a collarless redingote, mildly fitted but not flared. The shoulders must be definitely squared out to balance the hips—and maybe the neckline will be interestingly stitched, as new necklines will be this spring. Such a coat has the great advantage of looking well over afternoon frocks as well as tailored daytime dresses too. For the jigger type you were thinking about would be all out of tune with a chiffon dress.

MARY HAMPTON.

'MANNEQUIN' NOW AT W. C.

Katharine Brush, whose best-selling novel, "Young Man of Manhattan," was made into a motion picture hit, has scored again with the adaptation to the screen of her original story, "Mannequin," co-starring for the first time Joan Crawford and Spencer Tracy. The picture now is showing at the West Coast theater along with the mystery play, "Arsene Lupin Returns."

With the New York Miss Brush knows so well as an exciting background, "Mannequin" is the human realistic tale of a girl born in a tenement who winds up in a multimillionaire's penthouse. Jessie Cassidy, played by Miss Crawford, asks for nothing more in life than three rooms and the man she loves, but fate takes a hand when two men battle for her.

"Arsene Lupin Returns" is a crook mystery de luxe, involving the creative use of the widely known character of Maurice LeBlanc. Careful and intelligent production, smart direction and adept writing with excellent performance share in the quality of the film which is unraveled. The cast includes Melvyn Douglas, Virginia Bruce, Warren William, John Halliday and Nat Pendleton.

Short subjects on the West Coast program include a color cartoon, "Pipe Dreams," and World news events.

NEW FILMS TO BE HERE SOON

Robert Taylor, supported by a group of film personalities who have achieved fame both here and abroad, including Lionel Barrymore, Maureen O'Sullivan and the British players Vivien Leigh, Edmund Gwenn and Griffith Jones, comes to the Broadway theater screen a week from tomorrow in "A Yank at Oxford," it was announced today by Manager George King.

The second attraction will be "Love On a Budget," one of the popular series of Jones family films with a cast including Jed Prouty, Shirley Deane, Spring Byington, Russell Gleason, Kenneth Howell and others. This newest of the famous series is the best of them all according to previews. Possessed of homely qualities, with a decided touch of the fireside and domesticity, plus a wealth of wholesome humor, it has that down to earth quality that carries a wide appeal.

Santa Ana Gets New Resident

Another householder for Santa Ana, after investigating every city in the Southland, is Harry Harvey Porter of Laguna Beach, public accountant, who has bought a home at 1502 West Second street and moved here with Mrs. Porter. His business offices will be in the Builders Exchange building, second and Main streets.

"I picked Santa Ana after a long investigation of the different cities throughout Southern California," Porter said. "I feel that with my 25 years' experience I will be able to form a connection here that will be of mutual advantage both to myself and to those requiring the services of an experienced public accountant."

Speeding Fines Assessed by Court

Eight speeders and 12 overtime parkers turned out for yesterday's police court session, paid fines totaling $86.

Those fined for speeding: Harold B. Miser, Anaheim, $8; Alex Rotkin, Los Angeles, $8; Ross H. Boyd, Jr., Tustin, $8; Allen Grimwood, Pasadena, $7; James M. Hill, Huntington Beach, $6; Ernest Bill, Jr., Huntington Park, $6; Marshall Kirby, Laguna Beach, $6, and Guy B. Chandler, Los Angeles, $5.

SIMONE SIMON AT WALKER'S

Although she has made three highly successful screen hits for Twentieth Century Fox, Simone Simon gets her first opportunity to wear glamorous clothes in her role in "Love and Hisses," playing at Walker's Sun., Mon., Tues and Wed.

She is co-starred with Walter Winchell and Ben Bernie in this new-idea musical from Darryl F. Zanuck's hit-making studio. Simone was only a schoolgirl in both "Girls' Dormitory" and "Ladies in Love," and a street waif in "Seventh Heaven," as none of these appearances gave her a change to display the chic for which she was famous in Paris.

Added attraction is the fascinating film, "Navy Blue and Gold." Three rollicking midshipmen provide as many triple threats in romance, drama and football in "Navy Blue and Gold." This is the adaptation of the novel by George S. Patton, which reaches the screen precisely the correct time. It is perhaps the foremost gridiron picture of the year.

BRIDGE PARTY BURGLAR LOSES

Moral: He who climbeth through a window is wise if it is his own window; policemen's windows are not a good idea.

Albert Lynn Coulter, who made the embarrassing mistake of interrupting a policeman's bridge party, was under sentence today to San Quentin prison.

Presiding Superior Judge James L. Allen denied probation yesterday and sentenced Coulter on first-degree burglary charges, for which the term is five years to life.

Coulter was nabbed by Officer Dick Bradley after the policeman assertedly detected him crawling through a window while a party was in progress.

'Baroness and Butler' Coming

Announcement was made today by Manager George King of the West Coast theater that the film hit, "The Baroness and the Butler," has been booked to show at the local house on Feb. 23.

The brilliant personality who was seen in "Wings of the Morning," soars to new heights in her first American-made picture made under Darryl F. Zanuck's personal supervision. By pairing Annabella with William Powell, a showmanship scoop was effected.

Others in the film include Helen Westley, Henry Stephenson, Joseph Schildkraut, Nigel Bruce, J. Edward Bromberg and Lynn Bari.

Mather to Talk On War Riddle

A riddle will be propounded, and answered, at Monday night's adult education department forum, in William auditorium.

Speaker will be W. W. Mather, and the topic of his talk "Good Will, Incorporated."

"Nobody wants war, but everyone is preparing for it," will be the riddle Mather will attempt to answer by showing some of the reasons for international mistrust. He also will discuss some of the many plans for peace organizations.

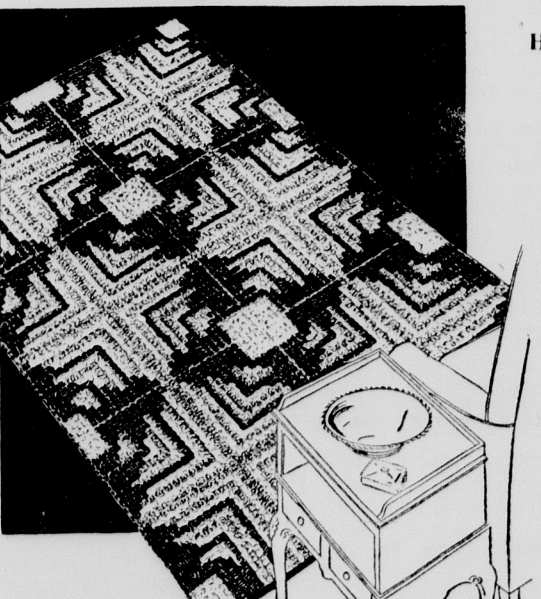

The meeting is slated for 7:30 p. m. in the Spurgeon school auditorium, 210 West Cubbon street. The public is invited.

Orange Juice Gets Air Innings

Why feed the baby orange juice? The University Explorer will tell you tomorrow over radio station KECA and the NBC network, at 9:45 a. m.

His topic will be "Citrus Juices and Medicine." The story of the research on citrus fruits conducted at the University of California at Los Angeles and sponsored by the California Fruit Growers exchange will be told.

Varied Rugs Made of Same Square

Make a gay rug of these simple-to-crochet, 6-in. squares. Use rags, candlewicking or rug wool in color schemes that blend or contrast. The same directions in 4-fold Germantown yarn may be used for afghans or pillows. For a boy's room you could use black, reds and grays in exciting Navajo Indian effect. In pattern 5699 you will find complete instructions for making the rug, an afghan, and pillow; an illustration of the rug and of the stitches used; a photograph of the square; material requirements; color suggestions. To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Journal, Household Arts Dept., 117 East Fifth street, Santa Ana, Calif. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and pattern number.

Movie Gridiron Champs

Colbert in Human Interest Film

"Torch Singer," showing at State beginning tomorrow, is a composite of romance, comedy and excitement with a novel story twist.

Hollywood Sights, Sounds

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD.—All that the set of "Marie Antoinette" lacked the other day was a spoon. The whole thing looked like an enormous, glittering dessert, rich beyond a gourmet's dreams.

This was perfectly proper, for the set was a ballroom of Versailles in the most brilliantly decadent period of France's history, the final fling of monumental vanity in an era of lavish conceits before the black storm of the revolution. At no time in the world's history to fill a modern kitchenette, were but the foundations of a costume. With this humble start, a lady merely had to pile on everything she could grasp—jewelry, flowers, feathers—and she'd stand a chance of getting an ogle. At least until Marie Antoinette entered the room. Marie had a way of outsmarting the other girls every time. (Which is not, of course, the only reason Norma Shearer plays the role.)

The ballroom was—well, a copy of its original, stately and brilliant.

REAL MC'COY

Every costume is the real McCoy, at once a headache and a delight to our Adrian, who went abroad to make his notes and must have come home in a frenzy of creation.

For a lady to dress in those days required five to six hours, but M-C-M has applied the "assembly line" principle and disposes of the extras in no time at all.

BOX OF BONBONS

I said it was a dessert—maybe a box of bonbons would be better. Mounds of silk and satin and brocades in all shades, filigreed with gold and silver and dripping with jewels, and topped off with the icing, the frosting, the whipped cream of the ladies' wigs. Incredibly eye-filling, these animated bonbons, these lacy fondants, these luscious sundaes, and I believe it now the film will cost at least $2,000,000!

Traveler Is Welcomed By Party

Mr. and Mrs. Alan A. Revill were a very gracious host and hostess last evening when they entertained in their home, 2215 North Ross street, for a gay reunion honoring Mrs. D. K. Hammond's return to Santa Ana.

A dinner was served to the guests buffet style, and was enjoyed at the small tables arranged with colorful Valentine appointments. During the evening, the guests played contract, but they were more interested in hearing of the experiences of the honored guest.

Mrs. Hammond returned last week from an extended visit to Europe, after accompanying her daughter, Miss Betty Hammond, there to matriculate at the Geneva College for Women, in Celigny, Switzerland. Miss Hammond will remain there to complete a course in French, since she was unable to find a similar course in the United States.

Mrs. Hammond spent six months in Paris before returning to the United States by way of a slow tramp steamer.

Guests at the party in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Hammond were Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Wellington, Mr. and Mrs. Will Spurgeon, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Glenn, Mr. and Mrs. Loyal King, Mrs. Louis Smith, a sister of Mrs. Hammond's, and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Revill.

Jaysee Fair Annual Visit Plans Are Celebrated By Y.L.I.

Sparkling with glitter and glamour of carnival gaiety are the ideas which Santa Ana Junior college coeds plan to carry out among the many widely different booths sponsored by both men and women's service clubs at the annual Penny Fair.

The celebration, which calls for unique themes, entertainment programs, and concession attractions on the part of all the campus service clubs, will be held in the National Guard armory Friday evening, Feb. 18. Open to the public, the fair's main feature is that nothing will cost over one cent.

Final completed plans for the booths of five college women's service clubs will be turned in next Tuesday to Calvin C. Flint, dean of men. But many ideas and general themes with colorful details have already been worked out by club members and committees.

Leading in novelty will be the booth planned by the Moavs. With a beach-comber theme, decorations run from sea shells and sand to coeds in brilliantly colored beach wear, furnishing that realistic atmosphere.

Sisterhood of Spinsters not only will use the traditional green and white checked apron effect, but also add individuality with a surprise touch to be effected by a special committee of four.

Bonnie Scotland offers to lend its brightest aids in decorations for the Piloteer's booth. Yellow, reds, greens and blues will predominate with a concession of floating paper cups to catch stray pennies and also represent the bobbing boats in Glasgow's regatta. Bandanas of gypsy colors will parade about the Las Gitanas booth, trimming the outside. Members may also wear the accompanying costumes which their club typifies—a fortune teller's lure.

Balloons and still more bouncing balloons will catch the eye of Las Monnas decide to use them again as the main feature of their booth. With all the colors of the rainbow present the many balloons will combine the hues of the festive occasion and surrounding booths. Monday night all the service clubs will hold their regular meetings to decide upon definite plans and further suggestions regarding their theme.

Los Gachos, men's service club at jaysee, sponsors the affair each year, which has become a tradition. Its purpose is to earn money for the student loan fund. Proceeds are in part used to purchase some convenient gift for the college.

Buccaneer pirates, gypsies, caballeros, aviatrices, Egyptians, beachcombers, pig game hunters, united bachelors and fancy-free spinsters will all join in adding variety at the biggest outside social attraction of the year—the coming Penny Fair.

"Saddlebacks" riding section of Junior Ebell club, because of the stormy weather met for luncheon and bridge at the home of Mrs. Charles E. McDaniel, Jr., with Miss Mildred Spicer as co-hostess for the day.

The dance will be formal, and members are asked to notify the secretary, LeRoy Burns, if they are unable to attend. In charge of the affair will be a committee composed of Stan Norton, Estece Brown, and Ewald Lemcke.

Bridge Lunch Enjoyed By Guests

Continuing her pleasant series of afternoon parties, Mrs. Edgar F. Elstrom was a gracious hostess yesterday to a group of friends, entertaining them at a luncheon and bridge session in her home on Heliotope drive.

Mrs. Elstrom chose the Valentine motif as appropriate for her party, and centered the large dining room table with a big red celophane heart filled with red rosebuds and white stock. Centering each of the smaller tables was a tiny old-fashioned nosegay of violets, centered with a single rosebud and fringed with candy tuft.

Luncheon was served to the guests at the small tables, followed by informal chatting and bridge games. High prize was awarded to Mrs. Herbert Miller and low to Mrs. Rex Kennedy.

CHAT AWHILE with BETTY

Our Society Editor

A new little nest, Just a short rest To get new zest Way out in the west Was what our Betty (Who really was pretty) Decided would be best.

But she got no rest With many a pest. And many a guest Who wanted to test Her new little nest.

Now this all is in jest And we figure it best That we all quit lest Miss Betty has guessed That our joke has gone west.

And her fans think it best That we take a rest And put on our vest And also go west.

Now that we're west, Have stopped being a pest, Dear Betty, come test Your art of gab fest.

That was all brought about by the absence of our dear society editor during the past week. She's been refurbishing El Rancho Guido at 202 West Nineteenth street, and is going to wind it up with about 30 people in for a buffet supper.

It may sound like warfare, but the kind of a fencing bee that Bob and Betty are planning for tomorrow won't be with swords. The Guido's are just aching for a little white picket fence around their newly-renovated cottage, therefore the party. Choose your weapons!

I'm still convinced that all people are children at heart. You can see for yourself that just about every so often they have to break loose with a costume ball, so they can dress up and pretend to be somebody or something they're not. The Torosa Rebekahs had a masked ball on Wednesday night, and tomorrow night is the gala Artists' ball at Laguna Beach.

Quite a few people are going from Santa Ana, and heading the delegation are Braden and Kay Finch. Besides them, you'll see the Charles McDaniels, the Edward Halls, Cindy Griffith, and Donald Button. Some of the costumes sound most interesting, but, alack! I'm sworn to secrecy.

One day during the past week, little Margaret Walker was standing at the window, with her nose pressed against the glass, watching one of our heavy falls of dew. (Chamber of commerce please note.) She suddenly turned to Henriette Walker and asked, "Mama, do you think we're going to have a flood?"

When asked as to just what she meant, Margaret explained, "You know, when water comes up over the curbs and everything!"

Answer of the week: Mrs. Chenoweth was at Thelma Elstrom's luncheon yesterday!

Speaking of luncheons, we hear that Thelma had quite a time yesterday. It seems that she has an electric stove and yesterday when her guests began to arrive, the lights went off. You fill in the blanks!

Her only comment was, "Well, the coffee was a little cold."

One of the very nicest stories I've heard in a long time, should really be told at the Yuletide. Mrs. E. M. Waycott was driving up to Los Angeles with friend hubby one Christmas day for a big turkey dinner. It was the year there were so many young boys out on the road, just bumming around.

So Mrs. Waycott fixed up a whole basket of sandwiches and a big jug of coffee, and they stopped and fed every hobo they met on the highway. Another happy note—not one was discourteous to Monday, because of sickness. She's much better now, thank you!

Marjory Haster hasn't got the travel bug out of her system yet. She's now contemplating another trip to Europe in August, but there's a special attraction this time. In the meantime, she's planning to start an executive secretary's course at Woodbury's college in L. A. soon.

Marjory went to Santa Ana jaysee for a year, then went over to Europe for a year's stay. Since she's been home, it's been one mad round of parties, week-ends in the mountains, and weeks at Palm Springs.

This seems to be my last paragraph, so I'll retire gracefully and wait for an answer to my poem dedicated to Betty. Thanks again for all your kindnesses.

EDNA WILSON.

Mother of Six Grown Children Writes on 'Young People's Problem' in Her Home

In a letter from the Santa Ana mother of a family of six grown children, the problem of family finances and home life is discussed. How much do the children owe their parents for their upbringing? And when they are grown up and earning a living for themselves, though still residing at home, should they share in the maintenance of the home? Should the mother and father set down rigid rules for the home about hours and conduct?

Dear Miss Stoddard:

May I send a few words to "A Young People's Problem" in regard to the young people problem? You are right when you do not approve of the young people indulging in their selfishness upon you, (since I have six between 17 and 28 years) I feel that all children are born selfish and unless they are forced to think of others they will continue in this way all through life. It is our duty as mothers and fathers to rule our homes. We are, or should be, the kings and queens of them and if we do not rule them, they will rule us.

I know that, at times, I am unable to meet the great demands placed upon me, but I try and hope for the best results.

My young people may have their friends in the home in the early evening as long as they are quiet, but must not ask them in after 10 o'clock. I work harder than they and this is my home as well as theirs and if they do not like my way they are welcome to find homes more suitable to their needs. I know, from experience, the dollars I have spent freely for them would be returned grudgingly by the pennies instead if it were needed. And now I feel that I owe something to myself who has gone without many brought with her a number of dresses and accessories which she used to emphasize her talk. She stated the importance of posture in all phases of life.

Dainty refreshments prepared and served by members of the Parent-Teacher association of the beach school were served from Valentine-decorated tables.

of the necessities of life because of them. Yes, we have all heard the old trite phrase "but they didn't ask to be born" and "neither did I."

I have found it costs more money to board and room my own children than others, because of the greater demands for entertainment. Two people can live on very little money and since the young folks say they are taking care of themselves why not let them do it, and what a relief. Why not try it?

A FRIEND TO BOTH.

I am glad this mother of six wrote as she did for her story is the same as many a mother's. I feel that members of a grown family who are earning their "living" but still at home with their parents should pay their board and room just as if they were living away from home. The home, however, should be made as much "theirs" as the parents' and they should feel happy and contented to live and spend recreation hours there. I feel that if a true spirit of freedom and happiness exists in that home the young people will of their own free will want to contribute their fair share. Perhaps this mother worries unduly over money matters and small things in the home and lets this attitude color her dealing with her children, so that they are always looking for excuses to get away from home money to go out, when if they had the freedom of the house they might remain home. What I cannot understand is, if this mother has six grown children all working and living at home with her, why should she have to work so hard. Can't or won't they help her with chores around the house or give her enough money to make things easier for her?

CHIN CHAMP...

The late Lillian Leitzel, circus aerialist, established a one-hand chinning record that no man or woman has been able to equal. In Philadelphia, 1918, she performed 27 chins with her right hand and 17 with her left. The two-hand chinning record was made by Anton Lewis, of Brockton, Mass., who accomplished 78 pull-ups in succession, in April, 1913.

One of the most difficult of chins was performed by a Spanish athlete, according to the gymnast Prof. P. H. Paulinette. This man pulled himself up with one hand while holding a 56-pound weight in the other hand. If there are any strength enthusiasts who think they can better these records, the feat of A. Cutler, of Louisville, Ky., in September, 1878, will no doubt stop them. Cutler first performed 12

one-hand chins in succession, then on the same day pulled himself up 6 times, using only the little finger of one hand. PRODIGAL TURTLE... Slowly but surely, every summer, a small turtle shows up at home of Mrs. E. A. Knott, at Columbus Junction, Iowa. For two, three or maybe four days, he remains, and then disappears, not to return again until the next summer.

"DESIGN FOR LIVING"

From Time Immemorial man has had to struggle for existence. The bulwark of all defense has been home. The Eskimo's hut is his protection from devastating Alaskan months, and the nobleman's castle has always been a fortress. Our American home is our guarantee of safety... not especially from outside encroachments nor bitter weather, but for normal, healthy living.

Happy home life is reflected in our daily activities. There's a glow of pride in being the "master of our castle," even though that castle be a humble, little home.

For Protection, for Comfort, for Happiness, own a home of your own... It's surprising how easy it is to purchase a home, with a moderate down payment and convenient monthly installments through the medium of the Classified Ads of The Evening Journal and your "REALTOR."

America Can Be Proud Today

Perhaps every visitor to Washington puts the impressive Lincoln Memorial at the top of his calling list.
Guides say that the great shrine, with the mighty Potomac and the heights of Arlington behind it, ranks in reverential attention with Washington's monument and the Capitol.

There is a reason why people all over the world look up to Lincoln, whose birth we celebrate today.

His life and death make a dramatic, human, compelling story of a man far above the plane of ordinary men.
Abraham Lincoln started under a handicap. Born in a poor backwoods family, he dug out his own education.
The same iron determination for improvement carried him to success in politics, and, after years of service, to the highest honor which the citizens of America can bestow
—the presidency.

Tribulations struck him in the presidential chair—
the revolt of the South and the struggle to preserve the union. Lincoln, largely through his will and decision, carried the nation to victory.

Then, at the peak of his triumph and on the verge of extending a merciful hand to the conquered states, comes disaster. He is struck down by an assassin. A great life of achievement culminated in bitter tragedy.

Such are the elements that endear Lincoln to the people of every land where true nobility of character, courage and statesmanship are admired.

Opportunity for Coast Cities

Dropped in to ask James Farquhar, energetic publisher of the Huntington Beach News, about the proposed airline highway between his city and the county seat.

"It's a great idea," says Mr. Farquhar, whose town has the distinction of having the longest concrete pier on the Pacific coast, the largest chili pepper plant in the world, and where a big oil boom as a result of deep test
drilling is expected to explode almost momentarily.

Wideawake to the opportunities which such a route would bring his community, Mr. Farquhar believes it will increase the seasonal beach traffic from Santa Ana, Orange, Anaheim and the inland counties.

There's no reason, either, why Orange county beaches
shouldn't cut in on the Long Beach attempt at monopoly of out-of-state visitors who pour into California through Santa Ana canyon.

Huntington Beach and other progressive coast cities have a lot more to offer the Easterner in many respects than Long Beach. Better roads through the county will help bring them in.

Romances Renewed

What shall it profit a man if he be the biggest of shots among his fellows and have not the high regard of the little lady he promised to love, honor and cherish?

Or is that a personal question?

Just a minute, then, and we'll skip along to something else.

St. Valentine's day is swooping down on a busy world, and unless somebody says something about it, it is quite likely to swoop right along past and become one of those occasions we "just plain forgot."

This little note is not especially designed to create more business for the florists, but if it does, that's fine.

You may have forgotten her last birthday; you may have been unavoidably out of town last wedding anniversary.

Valentine day is next Monday, February 14. A bou-quet of flowers renews romances, even though they be 75 years old.

ing for rain, he just can't seem to quit.*

A Wishing Well of Real Value

Sandwiched amid stories of politics and war, we found an item yesterday which proves that people are just as big-hearted and generous as ever.

It told about a suggestion of Harry A. Williams of Fullerton that a wishing well be established somewhere in the county, like the one at Santa Cruz, for the benefit of crippled children.

All the coins tossed into the shining water of the well would go to help physically afflicted, and whether the wish of the giver came true or not, he would, at least,
have the satisfaction of knowing that someone less fortunate had benefitted from it.

Plans to build the well are ready to carry out, we are informed, but a site remains to be chosen.

It would be a fine thing to have this kind of wishing well in Santa Ana. Where is a good location for it?

'Brickdust' in the Air

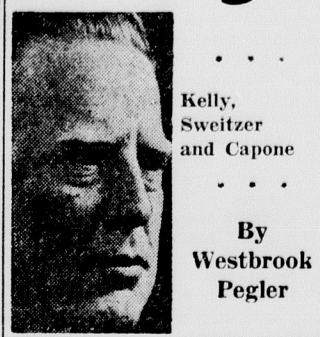

T. Nelson "Brick" Gaines has been drafted to write his column again.

He indicated on the county page a week ago that he was considering once more the role of a roving journalist,
and the customers took him at his word.

If all the letters that have poured in from Gaines' fans demanding the column were elephants, Brick could start a circus or join the courthouse animal act. Overwhelmed by the response, he is out to make good for the public.

We'll be watching for "Brickdust" Monday in its old familiar spot on the county page with enthusiasm.

FAIR Enough

Kelly,
Sweetzer
and Capone

By Westbrook
Pegler

CHICAGO.—Al Capone, Mayor
Ed. Kelly, and Robert W. Sweetzer, former county clerk of Cook county, are among the most interesting figures in the recent history of Chicago.

As is well known, Mr. Capone is the victim of a bum rap in the sense that his sentence of 11 years
for violation of the federal income tax law is excessive. No other convicted violator has been punished so severely, and the accepted truth of the matter is that Capone is also serving time for bootlegging and brothel keeping and for an indefinite number of killings.

Other violators have been allowed to make deals with the treasury, but Capone had given the government much trouble and Chicago a bad name, so the income tax law was stretched to cover all manner of sins.

By the same process, a political opponent of an unscrupulous administration could be removed from the scene for 11 years and
possibly driven insane by the rig-
ors of life on Alcatraz, where Cap-
one has broken under the strain.
Viewed in this light, the procedure
in the income tax case against
some of Huey Long's men was
more interesting than the public generally understood.

TAX DIFFICULTIES

Mr. Kelly also had income tax difficulties a few years ago, but the treasury took a different view.
After some sniping in the Chicago
papers and by political enemies,
Mr. Kelly decided to take the citizens into his confidence, not for personal considerations, but to protect the fair name of Chicago,
or which he naturally feels himself to be a protector. He decided that the city was being slandered and therefore made a statement explaining all.

Mr. Kelly stated that his earnings for the 10 years between 1919 and 1929 were $724,367, of which $151,000 was salary, and explained
from the scene for 11 years and
possibly driven insane by the rig-
ors of life on Alcatraz, where Cap-
one has broken under the strain.
Viewed in this light, the procedure
in the income tax case against
some of Huey Long's men was
more interesting than the public
generally understood.

The government, however, decided that these items must be listed as income and because his returns already were in the higher brackets, thanks to his good fortune with his business dealings,
his tax was increased by $60,000.
This, with the penalties and interest, brought the amount of his settlement to about $110,000.

KELLY'S CONTENTION

Mr. Kelly still contends that the reimbursement was not income and therefore not taxable, and it is indeed dreadful to consider that a distinguished citizen may be held up for $110,000 tax on his own money returning from a loan.
Mr. Sweetzer is another faithful public servant who suffered for his prominence in the line of battle for good government.

After long service in the office of county clerk he was accused of holding back from his successor $400,000, consisting chiefly of money laid down by buyers of tax liens on delinquent property. The money was called the vest-pocket fund, and Mr. Sweetzer's counsel declared in court that it did not belong to the taxpayers, but to the tax buyers, whom he described as vultures.

FOUL INJUSTICE

Mr. Sweetzer suffered acutely from the foul injustice of the charge and vowed that he was eager to turn over the money, but naturally could not do so until he was given an exact accounting of the amount due. He wanted to be scrupulously exact, but the condition of the books was such that it was impossible to agree on the amount.

To the eternal credit of the jury's sense of justice, Mr. Sweetzer was vindicated and enjoys today with Mr. Kelly the respect of his fellow citizens. He is still eager to turn over the money when the proper conditions are met. So justice does her stuff in Chicago. In the exact sense Capone was over-punished, but, by and large, he had it coming. Mr. Kelly is a martyr to the extent of $110,000, but his good name is intact and Mr.
Sweetzer's honor was only rubbed brighter in the courts.

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

Mining companies represented by Berle had difficulty getting SEC O. K.; commission required severe amendments before registering stock issues;
governors would have found less temperamental "little men"
for parley; President put Pennsylvania's hard coal problem
back in governor's lap.

WASHINGTON.—One of the most interesting developments in the President's official family is the various vocations taken up by his Brain Trust after they leave the spotlight of public office.

Professor Moley has gone in for publishing and consorting with various big business groups. Professor Tugwell has become vice president of the American Molasses company. And Adolf Berle, Jr., now offered the job of Assistant Secretary of State, recently represented some difficulty in getting their stock registered before the Securities and Exchange Commission.

One was Stansbury Consolidated,
Inc., an Idaho gold mining concern which the SEC would not register until it had held private hearings and required eight clarifying amendments. One of the amendments read: "No silver showing of consequence has as yet been encountered in the Gullickson tunnel) by reason of development work done so far."

EXAMPLE OF FEES

A relatively small number of private hearings are held by the SEC, so that officials must have found considerable fault either with the company or with the Brain Trust's presentation of the facts. After five months of jock-ing the issue was registered.
Berle and Berle (Adolf's brother Rudolf appeared before the SEC) got a fee of $3750, which is small for this type of work.

The other concern was Callahan
Zinc-Lead, an Arizona company operating in Idaho, for which the Berle brothers got a fee of $12,000.
On this they did a quicker job,
but nine amendments were required by the SEC. One of these stated: "The development work on the south vein has been disappointing." Another stated: "The Galena mine is not beyond the development stage."

Most interesting was an original balance sheet in which the company claimed that 754,833 shares of Blue Grouse Mining stock were worth $172,069, and that 500,800 shares of Silver State stock were worth $109,817.

After the SEC had finished
dickering with the Berle brothers, the final registration listed the above stocks, claimed at $171,890,
to be worth only $2.

SPEECH WRITER

Berle was the chief author of the President's famous Commonwealth Club speech in San Francisco in 1932, one of the most radical speeches of the campaign,
in which he virtually advocated the curtailment of the profit system.

Brain Trusters who prepared this speech were afraid that Roosevelt would balk at it, and privately attributed his use of it in toto to the fact that he had made a quick series of speeches along the West Coast, and had temporarily exhausted his other material.

Gutzon Borglum, who is carving
the faces of Washington, Lincoln, Jefferson, and Roosevelt I into Mt. Rushmore, South Dakota, is meeting with favorable Congressional response to his plea for additional money to build an auditorium at some distance from the monument, from which people can look at it.

President Roosevelt stopped in the Black Hills one summer to see the work, sat and viewed it for forty minutes before he spoke. Finally he said: "I never believed that a big thing could be so beautiful."

Herman Oliphant, hard-boiled
Treasury Department counsel, spent a week in the Black Hills.
After sitting around for two days,
he remarked to Borglum:

"I've been watching these people in silks and rags view this monument, and I never before realized that an unnecessary thing
could be so important."

SECRET ADVICE

Around the Commerce Department, where echoes of the disastrous Little Men's conference still are reverberating, there are wishing they had taken the private advice of Democratic politicians to have the governor of each state select the Little Men delegates.

Instead, delegates were selected on the basis of those who had written letters to the White House suggesting economic panaceas, and this type of letter-written always is inclined to be more tempermental than practical.

Note—Thirty-nine of the 48
State Governors are Democrats, and could have been trusted to select less "temperamental" delegates.

HARD COAL PROBLEM

After he left the White House
recently, Governor Earle of Pennsylvania gave the impression that the President was very much interested in his plan for federal purchase and control of the anthracite coal fields.

Actually, just the opposite was the case. What FDR really told Earle was that federal acquisition might be the last resort, but only after the state had exhausted every other plan of regulation.

The President's view is that anthracite is a Pennsylvania monopoly, therefore other states would oppose federal purchase. (1) because they have no anthracite; (2)
because many of them produce oil and gas, which are direct competitors of anthracite. Also, purchase of the mines would cost the government about $25,000,000.

In effect Roosevelt told Earle to go back and tackle the anthracite job himself.

I'll Tell You

I'm always a little suspicious of people who are so ready to call somebody else a crook. The other day I was talking

suing her hus-

kicking about her lawyer being so crooked.

I says, "Well,
what has he done?" And she says, "Well, he came to me and said he had talked to my husband and he had gotten a fair settlement."

I says, "What's wrong with that?" She says, "Well, I didn't need a lawyer to get a fair settlement—I coulda gotten that myself."

The Mailbag

Public opinion, or what somebody in office might call it, is our lot, is our ruler. If public opinion is active, the politicians and people sit on a take-nothing. There is a definite need for outspoken talking and thinking on public matters. Honest, straightforward criticism of our problems is immensely useful. So that every citizen may have his say and contribute to the formation of public opinion, The Journal invites letters to The Mailbag.

TWO MINISTERS

To the Editor: In the issue of your paper, Jan. 26, I noticed your editorial—"A Man of God." On the front page of the same paper you ran an article depicting the praise
of a man working with the arm of the law, who represented the same ministry of love and salvation.

The two ministers are as widely apart in point of view as to their chosen fields of service as a concrete mixer and a college professor.

One is seeking the praise of the world, a headline for publicity;
the other is seeking to win lost
men back to honor and virtue.

One is provided a splendid church edifice in which to preach
the gospel, but finds a connection with the vice squad attractive; the other has no church building at all, but seeks the salvation of men
by appealing to those in a barroom, or on the street corner.

One is receiving a stipulated salary for "preaching," not law enforcement; the other has no salary at all, but goes to his task persistently.

One looks upon the wrong-doer
as a vicious man to be jailed; the other sees possibilities for good in all broken men and women.

The philosophy of one man is ultra modern; the philosophy of the other dates back to the dawn of civilization.

One is schooled in the thought of the Pharisees; the other is battised with the spirit of Jesus.

If both receive their revelations
from a god, one must be directed by a God of War, while the other must get his from a God of Love.

CITRUS OUTLOOK

To the Editor: We noticed in your paper Feb. 8, an article headed "Bumper Crop Faces Pessimistic Outlook."

It is our belief that pessimistic orange articles will not promote the best interests of Orange county. Orange crop income is derived from the citrus industry. Large citrus crops cannot be regulated to meet a reduced buying power by reducing the number of acres as with tomatoes, watermelons, or squash. Our acreage is fixed. It has taken years to bring the groves to the present state of development. Is it to be suggested that we destroy our fruit? If so,
who will bear the loss?

It is a well-known fact that eastern newspapers take a delight in reprinting articles unfavorable to the West.

Perhaps this is what certain citrus officials want?
It has been hinted for a number of years that certain citrus officials were bidding against their own fruit in eastern markets.

Maybe they want the prices lower?

What other big business group about crying down the price of its own product?

Certainly pessimism will not serve the best interests of the growers!

AUTOIST'S VIEW

To the Editor: In fairness to all concerned, I ask you to print this letter, and to let it be read to all
no doubt it will do a lot of good for some people and perhaps save a few lives.

Pedestrians have too darned
much right of way over moving vehicles.

For instance, as I go driving down the street, I'll be approaching an intersection and time after time there has been some one step off the curb directly in front of me and proceed on across the street while I hastily shove my brakes on to get to a stop and stop with a sudden jerk and sometimes my tires slide even if I am only making 15 or 20 miles an hour. This is especially true by the Junior college.

After said party steps in front of me, he or she looks me directly in the eye and says to themselves, "I just dare you to hit me, you lug!" That is the wrong attitude for pedestrians to take.

I don't want to hit anyone or anything; in fact, I ruined my automobile once to keep from hit-ing a small boy who ran out from behind a street car and it cost me $50 to repair my car. However, I would wreck a dozen cars rather than kill or maim someone.

Just the same I think it's high time that the pedestrian consider the car driver a little bit and give him a helping hand to avoid such accidents.

I'm sure there are thousands of people who will agree with me.

BRIGHT MOMENTS

Abraham Lincoln was once engaged to defend a man who was accused of assault and battery.
The plaintiff, who was a hump-backed man, was very satisfied with his smartness in repartee. He had told a horrible story of the attack, and his appearance fully justified the tale. Lincoln, when he had a chance at cross-examination, looked at the man a long time, then said, "Well, my friend, how much ground did you and my client fight over?" "About six acres," was the reply. "Well," said Lincoln, "don't you think that this is an almighty small crop of fight to gather from such a big piece of ground?" The case was laughed right out of court.
